

R.G. (Bob) Gow, Trade Commissioner – Environment & Renewable Energy
Consulate General of Canada

Joining the Consulate General of Canada in 1991, Bob is an Australian responsible for facilitating trade, investment and technology transfer between Canada and Australia and he has participated in many forums as a delegate for Canada under APEC, APP, GCCSI and similar. He has previously handled most sectors but in recent years has focussed on developing markets for existing and emerging technologies in environment & renewable energy.

Prior to joining the Consulate he held senior divisional management and international marketing positions in leading Australian and international companies in the metals and engineering industries. This experience together with qualifications in business management, marketing and finance assist greatly in matching potential partners in business and in government; he welcomes contact from organisations seeking to develop markets in Canada and Australia or jointly in third countries.
