

Kerry Rooney, Global Industry Network Leader, Clean Energy & Environment, Austrade Canberra

Kerry Rooney is the Global Industry Network Leader for Clean Energy and the Environment in Austrade, the Government's trade and investment agency. Kerry is leading the implementation of the Australian Government's strategy for clean energy trade and investment. Kerry's team in Australia works closely with Austrade's overseas posts to attract foreign direct investment into Australia and supports a global network of export advisers and business development managers who work with Australian companies to realise their international business needs.

Prior to joining Austrade in 2008, Kerry was the General Manager for Technology and Manufacturing in Invest Australia, the Australian Government's former inward investment agency, focusing on investment in biotechnology, ICT and advanced manufacturing. As part of her 25 year career in the Australian Government, Kerry was also the General Manager responsible for tourism business development in the Department of Industry, Tourism and Resources.
