

Richard Marshall, Director - Energy & Environment, GM Holden

Richard Marshall was appointed as the first GM Holden Director – Energy and Environment, effective 12 January 2009. In this new role, Richard is responsible for leading development and driving the implementation of GM Holden's energy diversity strategy.

Richard was previously Director – Innovation Engineering. Within this role, he has been active in the energy and environment and advanced technology areas, having worked at GM Holden for 20 years. He has a Bachelor of Engineering Degree in Mechanical Engineering from The Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology and a Post Graduate Diploma in Technology Management from Deakin University.