

TJ Struhs, Head of Government Affairs, Dialight Corporation, US

TJ Struhs is recognized as a rising star within the ranks of the US energy efficiency and LED lighting community. As the Head of the Government Affairs office for Dialight Corporation based in New Jersey, TJ has worked closely with States and Municipalities across the United States to show how LED lighting can play an important role in ensuring sustainable solutions thru the application of clean technology to lower carbon footprints while achieving target environmental, economic and energy goals.

Coming to Dialight from the United States Department of Commerce, TJ has held political positions on both the local & national levels, bringing a unique understanding and perspective to energy efficiency as it relates to government markets.

A native of Boston, Massachusetts, TJ is a graduate of Wheaton College and an avid rugby fan, playing all four years for the Wheaton College Lions.